

TECHNANCIAL AND OPTIONS ANNOUNCE TTC'S JANUS SUITE AVAILABILITY WITHIN OPTIONS' FACILITIES

Friday, 14 December 2018, London: JANUS Risk Manager (JRM), will now be available in Options' datacentres and accessible to institutional clients across its global platform. The Technancial Company (TTC) and Options entered into the agreement in order to facilitate cutting edge outsourced solutions, including JANUS, in all geographic regions.

Options' partnership with TTC will make JANUS Risk Manager, JANUS Margin Engine, and JANUS Trade Surveillance readily available for clients seeking an overall reduction in operational costs by using a SaaS deployment model.

Options hosts data services, exchange connections, and various OMS / EMS systems across its global client portfolio. Being one of the first cloud infrastructure providers in the industry to achieve SOC Type II certification in 2011, Options conforms to the latest security protocols of the Statement of Standards for Attestation of Engagement (SSAE) 18, and for Service Organization Controls (SOC) 1 Type II and SOC 2 Type II.

The addition of the industry leading JANUS suite, to Options' expansive list of available services will see the firm align its low latency trading platform with fully detailed real time analytics, thus bolstering the firm's data analytics and monitoring tools.

TTC's Mirko Marcadella, Managing Director of The Technancial Company, said, "We are excited that our software will be available to clients who are already familiar with Options' service and high SaaS standards, as well as to clients that previously only considered in house deployment."

Options' CEO and founder, Nigel Kneafsey welcomed the announcement by commenting,

“Adding sophisticated big data analytics in real time brings another strong compliance and business analytics component to an increasingly complex and fast moving environment. As we continue our overall global expansion and product development, we are delighted to announce our partnership with Technancial and look forward to bringing their cutting edge services even closer to clients.”
